Course Description

This course is intended to equip students who will be future business managers with legal knowledge that is relevant to commercial transactions so that they can, not only understand the rights and obligations of a business, but also take appropriate actions, both before and after the problem arises – so as to reduce possible negative impact on the business or to advance the interests of the business. The course will also discuss the interaction between law and ethics and further some international (particularly Asian) comparisons will be addressed in order to prepare students for a world which is highly globalised.

Course Objectives

At the end of the course, students are expected to be able to:

- (1) predict the legal outcomes for common problems that may arise in a typical business setting;
- (2) take appropriate measures (both law and non-law related) to deal with such problems before/after they arise; and
- (3) articulate views relating to the subject at least in a class setting.

A NOTE ON ACADEMIC HONESTY & PLAGIARISM

Academic integrity and honesty is essential for the pursuit and acquisition of knowledge. The University and School expect every student to uphold academic integrity & honesty at all times. Academic dishonesty is any misrepresentation with the intent to deceive, or failure to acknowledge the source, or falsification of information, or inaccuracy of statements, or cheating at examinations/tests, or inappropriate use of resources.

Plagiarism is “the practice of taking someone else’s work or ideas and passing them off as one’s own” (The New Oxford Dictionary of English). For the avoidance of doubt, “someone else’s work or ideas” include output from artificial intelligence (AI). The University and School will not condone plagiarism. Students should adopt this rule - You have the obligation to make clear to the assessor which is your own work, and which is the work of others. Otherwise, your assessor is entitled to assume that everything being presented for assessment is being presented as entirely your own work. This is a minimum standard. In case of any doubt, you should consult your instructor.
